A RAILROAD'S RESPONSIBILITY.

Win One Suit-Another One on Trial. The case of Valentine Roth against the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad Company, wherein Roth sued the railroad company for the value of the services of his daughter, a little girl eight years old, who was struck by a passing train and killed, was concluded yesterday by the court directing the jury to bring in a verdiet for the defendant. At the conclusion of the plaintiff's | northwest Willard's-Hon. T. W. Davis, Pittsburg, Pa., evidence a motion was made for this purpose, John Bowman, Pittsburg, Pa.; Hon. Ed. Kearney, which the court granted. The ground of the decision was that the father of this little child had been in the habit of sending her across Virginia avenue on which three railroad tracks ran, to carry milk about the neighborhood, and that on this day she had gone over, probably, for the purpose of visiting an aunt who lived on the opposite side of the street. The limited express came in from New York, and the child, when first seen, was standing in the ditch at the side of the road, between Third and Four-and-a-half streets, and when the train came by the engine passed her, but one of the cars struck her on the head and killed her. No one on the engine or train saw her. The child was deaf and dumb, and the court held that it was gross carelessness on the part of the parents to permit her to go across this street in that way, and that, being in the habit of sending her across the railroad track for the purpose of delivering milk, &c., it would be presumed that she had gone over this dangerous place by their consent. The verdict was, therefore, rendered in behalf of the railroad company. Mr. Birney appeared for the plaintiff, and Enoch Totten, esq., for the railroad company. The Baltimore and Potomac Railroad Company at present is absorbing the entire attention of the Circuit Court. Yesterday, after finishing with the case of Valentine Roth against that corporation, the suit brought by Dennis Pumphrey against the road came on for hearing. This is an action filed by Messrs, R. T. Merrick and William F. Mattingly ment of want, rent, for sale, or lost, three times for | in behalf of the plaintiff for $20,000 damages. In April, 1878, Edison Pumphrey, a lad about ten years of age, son of the complainant, was run over by a train at Virginia avenue and Fourand-a-half street, and his left leg was cut off below the knee. The father entered a suit for damages to the amount above stated. The little fellow was in court yesterday, moving about on his 1881 of the National University Law School the fol- crutches. The company pleads that there was neither carelessness nor negligence on its part. When the court adjourned yesterday Colonel Enoch Totten, counsel for the company, was putting in the evidence for his side. The case will be finished next Monday, to which time the jury was respited.

THE BIG PRINTING OFFICE.

Beginning Work on the Extension-A Wholesale Furlough in Prospect.

Ground was broken on Wednesday last for the new addition to the Government Printing Office. Congress appropriated $40,000 for this work, upon the plans submitted to the committees by Architect Clark, at the request of Mr. Defrees. An adjoining lot of ground was purchased upon which to build a new stable, the old one to be torn down. occupying as it did space upon which the addition is to be built. This addition is to be four stories high with a basement, and will be 94 by 60 feet. The basement will be used to store fuel; the first story as a vault for the stereotype plates; the second story will be the specification room; the third an addition to the bindery, and the fourth an extension of the folding-room. The additional structure will be built of brick, and be as nearly fire-proof as the nature of its materials will allow The plan of the addition is in outward appearance precisely the same as the main building. Architect of the Capitol Clark is superintending the construction, most of which will be done by day's work under the supervision of assistant superincompleted by the 1st of October. The failure of Congress to appropriate for the Government Printing Office according to Mr. Defrees' estimates leaves such a want of funds, it is stated, that it will be absolutely necessary to furlough hundreds of employees between this and the 1st of July. The number of these will probably reach eight hundred. The furloughing will be gradual, and, although great suffering must ensue, it will dred in the folding-room, most of them women. who will thus be temporarily deprived of work through the false "economy" principles of the majority in the last Congress.

NAVY-YARD NEWS.

Expedition of the Yorktown Commission

-Vessels Expected Here. The United States steamer Dispatch, Commander Charles McGregor commanding, left the navy-yard yesterday afternoon, at three o'clock, for Yorktown, Va., with the Yorktown Centennial Commission on board and a number of ladies. The United States steamer Mayflower, Commander Augustus G. Kellogg commanding, will leave the navy-yard in a few days for the several navy-yards and stations along the Atlantic coast, with freight. The Mayflower will be used as a freight and dispatch vessel between the navyyard in this city and the several navy-yards along the coast during the repairs which the steamer Tallapoosa is now undergoing. The United States steamer Speedwell, Lieutenant Joseph E. Jones commanding, is expected to arrive at the navy-yard, this city, in a few days from Alexandria, Va., where she has been undergoing some slight repairs and painting to her bottom, on the railway in that city. On the arrival of the Speedwell at the navy-yard here she will be immediately loaded and dispatched with freight for the United States navy-yard at Norfolk, Va., and the Annapolis Naval Academy.

Now for the Gas Company.

The District of Columbia, encouraged by its success last week in a suit against the Balopportunity for gossip is upon market day; the | ing that rules be prepared for the government | timore and Potomac Railroad Company, in which the railroad company was compelled to pay over $1,000 to the District for damages in which the latter was mulcted by a man named Hayes for injuries received by falling into an excavation in a street made by the railroad company, has commenced an action of a similar nature against the Washington Gaslight Company. On the 20th of May, 1879, Marietta M. Parker stepped into an open gas-box on the sidewalk on C street, and recelved severe injuries. She made application to
